Fundamentals For Orienteering	These first 6 lessons will teach the basics of orienteering and following maps, symbols and direction. Children will develop their ability to work together in pairs, orientate a map depending on where they move, and find positions on a map returning to a starting point. It will also highlight the importance of fitness and exercise.

Our Curriculum Journey	Orienteering Journey: In these first 6 lessons, the children will start off by learning how to read instructions with strange and different symbols. They will be creating numbers, letter and sounding out words by following set instructions, working together to read the key to make sure they use the right equipment, but also complete it in the correct order. The children will then learn about recognising different maps and orientate themselves so they move around the map rather than the map itself moving. The children will complete the sounding cones that get progressively more complicated and also start to include task/obstacles along the way
